THIRTY-FIFTH ANNUAL

Directory of Labor Organizations in Massachusetts, 1936

With Statistics of Membership, 1926-1935

INTRODUCTION

The matter presented herewith constitutes the Thirty-fifth Annual Directory of Labor Organizations in Massachusetts, the first directory of this character having been published in August, 1902.¹ Labor organizations, within the meaning of this publication, are groups of wage-earners organized for the purpose of bettering conditions of workmen through negotiations with employers, and, to this end, are usually parties to either written or verbal agreements concerning wages and conditions of employment. As a direct result of the passage of the Industrial Recovery Act, many additional labor unions were organized as permitted under section 7a "... employees shall have the right to organize and bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing. . . ." A great many of these unions received charters directly from the American Federation of Labor, and many others through national organizations of which they became a part. The declaring of this Act as unconstitutional, in the spring of 1935, resulted in some loss in membership in the unions, and the giving up of charters in other instances. The number of local unions listed in this issue is 1,358,² a net decrease of 15 from the number listed in the directory of 1935.

The present edition consists of five divisions, as follows:

I. "National and International Organizations" having one or more affiliated local unions in the United States (pages 3-8);

II. "State and District Councils" consisting of organizations composed of delegates from local unions whose members are in trades of a like character within a definite district comprising more than a single city or town (pages 9-14);

III. "Central Labor Unions and Local Councils" composed of delegates from local unions in the same locality, not necessarily in similar trades (pages 15-20);

IV. "Local Trade Unions" composed of wage-earners in a single locality directly associated in what may be called the "unit body" of organization (pages 21-83);

V. "Statistics of Labor Organizations" showing number and membership of local unions at the close of each of the ten years 1926-1935, inclusive (pages 84-91).

At the close of December each year a general canvass is made for the data which appear in this directory. Each National and International Labor Organization known to be in existence in the United States (see Section I) is requested to furnish the Department with the name and address of its corresponding official and a list of any Massachusetts locals affiliated, together with the names and addresses of certain officials of such local unions. From the State and District Councils (see Section II) and the Central Labor Unions and Local Councils (see Section III) in Massachusetts, somewhat similar data are secured. Each local organization known to be in existence, whether or not ¹An edition of this directory has been published each year since 1902, except in 1903, in which year the directory for 1902 was reprinted.

²Total number of organizations listed in this issue is 1,667, of which number 144 are national and international organizations, 70 state and district councils, 95 central labor unions and councils, and 1,358 local trade unions chartered by an International or a National organization, was canvassed, and detailed information was secured as to the time and place of meeting, the names and addresses of corresponding and other officials, and other relevant data (see Section IV).²

Officials of these organizations from whom no report was received in response to the original request were visited by the field agents of the Division, and the necessary data were secured. There were also ascertained, from various sources, facts with reference to the forming of new unions and the disbanding of those formerly active. At the time of going to press, there were incorporated in this issue such changes in officials, in the time and place of meeting, etc., which had come to the attention of the Department since the original canvass was made. Subsequent changes cannot, of course, be made in this report, but are on record where known. Officials of organizations listed herein are urged to advise the Department of any such changes as they occur. The Department makes every effort to issue the directory as early in the year as possible, as much of its usefulness depends upon the promptness with which it is issued. In this endeavor we have had the cordial co-operation of the labor officials throughout the State.

II. STATE AND DISTRICT COUNCILS.

In the following presentation appear the names of organizations composed of delegates from local trade unions within a particular trade or group of trades, or a definite district not confined to a single locality. Delegate organizations which are strictly local bodies are included in Section III, under their respective municipalities. For convenience, the various Railway Adjustment, Protective, and Grievance Committees have been separately grouped at the end of this division of the Directory.

The following facts are given for each organization: name; business office (if any) and telephone number; time and place of next convention, conference, or meeting; names and addresses of the president, secretary (or other authorized correspondent), and business agent (if any). When no address is given for an officer named, he may be addressed at the business office or place of meeting.

IV. LOCAL TRADE UNIONS.

The names of the local trade unions appear in the following presentation, grouped for ready reference, by trade and occupational headings, under the respective municipalities in which they are located.

The following facts are given for each union: name, time and place of meeting (when hour of meeting is not given, union meets at about 8.00 P. M. on week days and 2.00 P. M. on Sundays); name and address of secretary, business agent, or other authorized correspondent. When name of any official is given without address, he may be addressed at place of meeting.

All but a few of the local unions are affiliated with national or international bodies, these few being entirely independent of any other labor organizations.

STATISTICS OF LABOR ORGANIZATIONS, 1926 TO 1935.

INTRODUCTORY.

The statistical data here presented have reference to the number and membership of labor organizations which were in existence in Massachusetts at the close of each of the years 1926 to 1935. The questionnaire sent to officials of labor unions for the purpose of securing information for use in the directory, issued annually, included an inquiry calling for the number of members of each local organization. For the most part, the information requested was secured by mail, but in those instances where the local officials failed to return the questionnaires, statistical investigators of the Department obtained the information from some official source.

Details with respect to individual unions are held strictly confidential, and are used only in the compilation of totals. Accordingly, in order not to disclose the membership of any organization reporting, the statistics presented in no case relate to less than five organizations in any group.

Statistics of labor organizations in Massachusetts were collected annually, beginning with the year 1908, by the former Bureau of Statistics, and since 1920 by the Division of Statistics of the Massachusetts Department of Labor and Industries, and the tabulations of the returns have been preserved in the files of the Department.¹ Since 1926 the results have not been published, and it is for this reason that the statistics for the years 1926 to 1935 are here presented in print for purposes of permanent record.

1. COMPARISONS BY INDUSTRIES AND TRADES.²

The number of local unions in Massachusetts in 1935 was 1,220, which was slightly less than the number existing in 1933 and 1934, but exceeded by 180 the number (1,040) in 1932. The maximum number of local unions in existence during the decade, 1926 to 1935, was 1,253 in 1926, and the minimum number was 1,040 in 1932.

The membership of the local unions varied considerably during the ten year period. In 1926 there were 226,841 members, and thereafter there was a decrease each year until 1932 when the number fell to 155,342, the minimum during the period under review. There was a marked gain in 1933 to 236,591, a further gain in 1934 to 246,411, and a decrease in 1935 to 216,141. The male membership was at its maximum in 1926 with 195,897, and the female membership (51,118) reached its peak in 1934, as compared with the minimum number (20,964) in 1932.

An endeavor has been made to classify each local organization with that industry or group of trades with which the majority of its members are most closely identified. Based on the number of local unions, the leading organized industries at the close of 1935 were as follows: building trades, 309; transportation (steam and electric), 193; textile industry, 99; boot and shoe industry, 69; printing and allied trades, 58; metal and machinery trades, 56; and all other trades and industries, 436. Based on the number of members, the boot and shoe industry ranked first in 1935, with 38,716 members, followed in order by the textile industry with 34,323; building trades, 25,530; transportation (steam and electric), 25,102; metals and machinery, 11,518; printing and allied trades, 6,652; and all other industries and trades, 74,300.

During the first seven of the ten years the membership of building trades unions far exceeded the membership of any other group, but with the decline in building construction operations since 1928, the membership of building trades unions has greatly decreased. As a result of the establishment of industrial codes in 1933 the labor union officials were very active in organizing locals in many industries which had never previously been organized. This was particularly true of employees in the electrical machinery and radio industry, employees of gas and electric companies, and of operatives in woolen and worsted goods mills.

¹Earlier reports of similar nature have been issued as follows: 1908, Part II of the Thirty-ninth Annual Report on the Statistics of Labor; 1909, Part III of the Fortieth Annual Report; 1910, Labor Bulletin No. 87; 1911, Part II of the Forty-second Annual Report; 1912, Labor Bulletin No. 96; 1913, Labor Bulletin No. 105; 1914, Labor Bulletin No. 112; 1915, Labor Bulletin No. 118; 1918, Labor Bulletin No. 126; 1921, Labor Bulletin No. 135; 1923, Labor Bulletin No. 140; and 1925, Labor Bulletin No. 146.

²For data in detail, see Table 1. The facts as given are as of the close of the respective years. The tabulations do not include unions of letter carriers, post office clerks, and railway mail clerks.

Boot and Shoe Industry. The number of unions in existence in the boot and shoe industry varied during the ten year period from 82 in 1926 to 47 in 1932; the number increased to 79 in 1933, dropped slightly to 76 in 1934 and to 69 at the close of 1935. The maximum membership of the boot and shoe unions was 58,867 in 1933, and of this number 20,457 were females. It appears probable, however, that the number of members (58,867 in 1933) included some duplications of individuals in those cities where two organizations were seeking to secure control, as a result of which some of the shoe workers felt that it would be advisable for them to retain their present membership and at the same time to join the organization which was gaining control. The minimum number of organized boot and shoe workers during the ten year period was 21,832 in 1931. In 1935 the membership was 38,716, of whom 14,315 were females.

Textile Industry. The number of unions in the textile industry in Massachusetts decreased from 70 in 1926 to the minimum number, 40, in 1932. In 1933 there was an increase to 73, and further increases to 95 in 1934, and to 99 in 1935. Likewise, the membership decreased from 22,463 in 1926 to the minimum, 11,679, in 1932. In 1933 there was a marked increase to 28,453, a further increase to 46,065 in 1934, the maximum number in any year during the ten year period, followed by a decrease to 34,323 in 1935. Apparently, the setting-up of the industrial codes in 1933 resulted in increased organizations in the textile industry in that year, and in 1934.

Building Trades. The number of building trades unions in 1926 and in 1927 was 351, and the number increased to 355 in 1928, the maximum number during the ten year period. In 1935 the number had decreased to 309, the minimum number during the period. The maximum membership was 54,222 in 1927. The membership declined each year after 1927, and in 1935 the number of members was 25,530, the minimum number during the ten year period. The scarcity of work for building tradesmen undoubtedly made it necessary for a great many former members to discontinue the payment of dues.

Transportation (Steam and Electric). The number of unions in this group in 1926 was 216, the maximum number in any year during the ten year period, and the minimum number was 186 in 1932. In 1933 the number increased to 190, in 1934 to 193, and in 1935 it was also 193. The maximum number of members was 38,717 in 1926, the minimum number was 25,030 in 1934, and in 1935 there was a slight increase to 25,102. In recent years decreases in membership occurred in nearly all classes of employees on railroads and street and electric railways.

Metal and Machinery Trades. The maximum number of unions in this group of trades in Massachusetts during the ten year period was 73 in 1926, and the minimum number was 56 in 1935. The membership of the unions decreased from 6,461 in 1926 to 3,378 in 1932, but in 1933, "plant" industrial unions were organized in the electrical machinery industry, and more workers were members of these unions than had been included in the membership of all other metal and machinery unions during the years 1926 to 1932, inclusive. In 1933 all of the unions together had a membership of 11,841, and the membership in 1934 and 1935 decreased only slightly.

Printing and Allied Trades. The number of unions in this group of trades did not change greatly during the ten year period. The largest number was 64 in 1926, and the smallest number was 57 in 1934. The number of members also varied relatively little. The largest number was 7,837 in 1933, and the smallest number was 6,652 in 1935.

All Other Industries and Trades. The recent increase in the number of members classified under "all other industries and trades" was due to the spread of trade unionism to other than the larger classes of employment. In 1932 there were 331 unions with a membership of 47,567; there was an increase in 1933 to 427 unions, and an increase in membership to 68,226. In 1934 there were 437 unions with a membership of 78,381, and in 1935 there were 436 unions with a membership of 74,300. Many of the unions in this miscellaneous group greatly increased their membership because of the adoption of codes, and many others were organized as "plant" unions rather than as trade unions of the older type.

2. DISTRIBUTION BY OCCUPATIONAL GROUPS.¹

Local unions as usually organized consist of members of a single craft or trade, or employees in closely related occupations. It is the policy of the American Federation of Labor, where there is not a sufficiently large number of wage-earners in a single craft to form a distinct local for that craft, to charter "federal labor unions" which include those not eligible for admission to any of the existing organizations. Similarly, in the boot and shoe and the textile industries "mixed unions" are organized, which comprise those engaged in those branches of the same industry who are not represented in sufficiently large numbers to justify the formation of separate craft organizations. As a result of the "codes" a new policy was adopted in accordance with which all workers in a single plant may be organized in a single union, designated as "plant union," without regard to the class of work performed by them.

In Table 2 data are presented for each of the ten years 1926-1935 inclusive, for each occupational group comprising at least 1,000 members during the greater part of the period. The occupational groups each comprising at least 3,500 members in 1935, were the following: carpenters, 8,984; street and electric railway employees, 8,952; garment workers, 8,925; teamsters, chauffeurs, etc., 8,216; leather workers (tannery), 8,048; municipal and state employees, 6,127; musicians, 4,900; hotel and restaurant employees, 4,577; telephone operators and workers, 4,183; government employees, 3,891; railway clerks, 3,799; bricklayers, masons, and plasterers, 3,740; and painters, decorators, and paperhangers, 3,640.

Within the individual groups various changes in membership occurred. The largest increases in membership during the ten year period were in the following occupations: brewery and soft drink workers, from 294 members in 1929 to 1,044 members in 1934, as a result of the repeal of prohibition; and hotel and restaurant employees, from 1,422 members in 1932, to 5,805 members in 1934. The largest decreases in membership were in the following occupations: hod carriers and building laborers, from a maximum of 9,730 in 1927 to 1,998 in 1935; molders and coremakers, iron and brass, from a maximum of 2,896 in 1926 to 959 in 1935.

¹For data in detail, see Table 2. The facts as given are as of the close of the respective years.

¹Because of the prevalence of "mixed" unions it is not possible to present data on an occupational basis for unions in the boot and shoe industry or the textile industry.

3. DISTRIBUTION OF LOCAL UNIONS BY MUNICIPALITIES.¹

The principal field of activity of that type of labor organization known as a "local union," is the city or town in which a large majority of the members are employed, and in which the headquarters are located. Frequently, a local union in a city or town is granted jurisdiction over one or more cities or towns adjacent thereto. The jurisdiction of certain types of railroad unions oftentimes extends over an entire system, and their membership thus includes some employees from distant points on the system represented in a local union, classified under that city or town in which it has its headquarters. In the city of Boston the total membership of organizations classified under Boston usually is greater than the number of organized wage earners who reside there, but the majority of whom are employed in Boston. The work entailed in ascertaining the residence of each member of a union would hardly be justified by the results obtained.

Data are presented in Table 3 showing the number and membership of local unions in Massachusetts at the close of each of the years 1926-1935, inclusive, classified by municipalities in which there were five or more unions, and which had a membership of 500 or more in 1935.

Boston far outranked all the municipalities in the State with respect to the number of local unions and their membership. Of the 1,220 unions in Massachusetts, 279, or 22.9 per cent had their headquarters in Boston in 1935, and the aggregate membership was 72,871, or 33.7 per cent of the total membership (216,141) of all local unions in the State in that year. In 21 of the municipalities, the number of organized wage-earners exceeded 1,000 in 1935. These 21 municipalities, arranged in the order of number of members, were: Boston, 72,871; Brockton, 14,196; Lynn, 12,549; Springfield, 10,702; Fall River, 9,638; New Bedford, 9,347; Worcester, 7,921; Lowell, 7,264; Haverhill, 6,388; Salem, 5,106; Holyoke, 4,820; Lawrence, 4,238; Marlboro, 1,882; Taunton, 1,556; Quincy, 1,537; Fitchburg, 1,406; Adams, 1,166; Newton, 1,145; Cambridge, 1,076; Northampton, 1,069; Somerville, 1,042. The total membership of the unions in these 21 municipalities was 176,869, or 81.9 per cent of the aggregate membership (216,141) of all local unions in the State in 1935.

Time Rates of Wages and Hours of Labor in Massachusetts, 1936

INTRODUCTION

This report, showing rates effective July 1, 1936 (in all except theatrical employment, in which the beginning of the fall contract season has for many years been designated as the reporting date) constitutes the twenty-seventh in a series of Labor Bulletins of this nature.¹ In certain industries the rates of wages and conditions of employment established under the "codes of fair competition" were continued virtually unchanged, largely because of the existence of effective agreements between employees and employers.

In the major portion of the report (Section "A. Industries and Trades") appear those data which relate to basic time rates and conditions of employment affecting members of labor organizations in Massachusetts as reported to the Department, on a prescribed form, by officials of the local unions. The information so secured is occasionally supplemented by data from other official sources. In the remainder of the report are presented similar data concerning municipal employment, gas and electric service, street and electric railway service and passenger bus service, and telephone service (Section C). The rates herein recorded are comparable with those in prior reports of a similar nature, and, together with such rates, are indicative of the trend of wages.

The annual collection of these data relating to time rates of wages and hours of labor in Massachusetts is an important function of the Division of Statistics. With minor exceptions, rates or schedules presented in this report became effective as a result of verbal or written agreements between employers and organized employees. Many of the rates so established were temporarily inoperative because of business conditions, but no attempt is here made to quote prices actually paid. Notations relative to any known changes which occur after the reporting date appear as footnotes, but such changes are not frequent, as it is the usual practice to renew or change agreements in the late winter or in the spring months.

In some industries, particularly the boot and shoe industry, the prevailing method of wage payments is on the basis of piece work prices. Hourly and weekly rates shown in this publication for the textile industry are those which apply when workers are engaged on a time basis at the operations named, many of which are ordinarily considered as being on a piece price basis.

The rates of wages as tabulated in this bulletin should not be confounded with actual earnings. The former are the rates agreed upon for a specified period of time, viz., an hour, day, or week; the latter result from the number of hours worked at these specified rates. An increase in earnings is not affected simply by an increase in rates, as a scarcity or abundance of work enters largely into the matter of earnings.

The hours of labor per day and per week prior to the codes had become fairly well standardized, with three schedules most prevalent, namely: a 5-day 40-hour week, a $5\frac{1}{2}$ -day 44-hour week, and a $5\frac{1}{2}$ -day 48-hour week. In the last instance the working schedules call for either $8\frac{1}{2}$ or $8\frac{2}{3}$ hours per day during each of the first five days, the remaining hours being worked Saturday morning. Schedules calling for six straight 8-hour days now relate almost wholly to engineers and firemen, watchmen, etc. Because of the standardization of hourly and weekly schedules generally, the weekly hours of labor only are given in this report in all except a few tables. A 40-hour week was the one most generally in effect throughout the different industries.

The method of presentation adopted is fundamentally the same for all industries, but in certain tables, as in theatrical employment, the box headings have been changed in order to more clearly present the particular type of employment being considered. The basic units of payment for all occupations in a specified industry or trade are usually identical, that is, by the hour, day, or week. All relevant information has been shown in tabular form so far as possible, but many of the provisions of employment cannot thus be indicated, and are accordingly briefly summarized in explanatory footnotes accompanying each table.

When overtime work is necessary, it is an almost universal practice to pay the regular straight-time rate plus a given portion of that rate. These "overtime rates" are generally shown in symbolic form, as follows: 1 T=straight time; $1\frac{1}{4}$ T=time and one-quarter; $1\frac{1}{2}$ T=time and one-half; 2 T=double time.

² On night shift, regular rate, plus ten per cent.

³ Jobbers receive same pay as those whose place they fill.

⁶ Higher rate applies when meals are not provided.

³ Rate per week.

⁵ Rate per hour applies during period May 1-August 31, with graded extra compensation per day if less than 40 hours are worked per week, so that if full 40 hours are worked, receive 48 hours' pay; during this period overtime begins after 40 hours.

⁷ May be arranged on a 5½ day basis, or on a two-shift basis 6½ hours per day for six days with one hour additional any day except Saturday, the shifts to be alternated each week.

⁸ Paid for time actually worked; overtime begins after 8 hours on any one day.

² Operators are usually engaged on the basis of two and one-half or three hours per performance — five or six hours a day. Rates quoted are paid operators for full schedule of hours. All time over 40 hours per week is usually worked by spare operators who receive pro rata of weekly rates, being paid therefor by operators whose schedules they complete, if such schedules exceed 40 hours per week.

⁵ Running time of theatre, 42-46 hours; covered by three operators with a maximum of 40 hours each per week; overtime $1.50 per hour per man.

⁶ Rates vary according to individual agreements.

⁵ Rate per day on a three show basis.

⁸ Two crews of six men each; one crew works from 10.00 a.m. to 5.00 p.m. and one works from 5.00 p.m. until drop of curtain of last show.

⁸ No fixed weekly rate; men receive 70 per cent of what they take in.

⁹ No fixed weekly rate; men receive 75 per cent of what they take in.

¹⁰ If men take in $35.00 they get $25.00 and 50 per cent over $35.00.

¹¹ The bonus usually paid only when receipts exceed $35 or $40 a week, depending upon the shop.

B. MUNICIPAL SERVICE

As in previous years, a questionnaire was sent to the mayors of cities and to the chairmen of the boards of selectmen of the town in Massachusetts which have a population of over 10,000 according to the 1935 census. This questionnaire called for information regarding the rates of wages paid to "laborers, workmen, and mechanics" in municipal service as of July 1, 1936. Returns were received and are here presented for 75 municipalities (39 cities and 36 towns).

In 1936 many of the wage reductions made in 1932 and 1933 were no longer in effect, and "contributions" were either reduced or no longer required of employees. It is not possible to present the details of all such arrangements, but there are presented in the table the basic rates in effect in 1936, and notations of any wage cuts or plans of contributions which have been reported.

In a number of cities and towns those men receiving aid from the city were called upon to give their services in return, for a limited number of days per week; usually the rates paid for such work were lower than the rates for the regular employees engaged on full time.

The data in the table which follows are arranged alphabetically by municipalities and by occupations thereunder. Only those occupations are considered which come within the provisions of the General Laws of Massachusetts with reference to "laborers, workmen, and mechanics." A number of municipalities find it advisable to let out on contract certain types of construction and other work which they are either not equipped to perform or which can be performed more economically under contract. The rates paid those on such contract work do not appear in this tabulation.

In each municipality, data with reference to the hours of labor appear in brief form after the tabulation of the established rates. Notations are also made regarding any special conditions of employment.

The maximum hours of labor in municipal employment are prescribed by the General Laws of Massachusetts (chapter one hundred and forty-nine). These laws, quotations from which appear below, become operative in whole or in part when all or certain sections thereof are accepted by the municipalities. No statement describing the action taken in this respect by the individual municipalities is here presented.

"The service of all laborers, workmen and mechanics ('... engineers shall be regarded as mechanics . . .') . . . is hereby restricted to eight hours in any one day . . . and to forty-eight hours in any one week.

"No officer of . . . any such town, no such contractor or sub-contractor or other person whose duty it is to employ, direct or control the service of such laborers, workmen or mechanics shall require or permit any such laborer, workman or mechanic to work more than eight hours in any one day, . . . or more than forty-eight hours in any one week, except in cases of extraordinary emergency.

"It shall not be a violation of section thirty or thirty-one (above extracts are quoted from these sections) if, in the event of a Saturday half-holiday being given to a laborer, workman or mechanic, his hours of labor upon other working days are increased sufficiently to make a total of forty-eight hours for his week's work.

"In any town not subject to section thirty or thirty-one nine hours shall constitute a day's work for all laborers, workmen and mechanics employed by or on behalf of such town."

In the matter of wage payments and overtime, there are several generally accepted methods of payments, as follows:

Those persons employed on an hourly basis receive pay for the actual number of hours worked.

Employees on a daily basis are paid a definite wage for each day worked, whether a full week-day or a Saturday half-holiday, but, in the case of a 44-hour weekly schedule calling for only 4 hours' employment on Saturday, the full daily wage is usually not paid for work on Saturday morning unless the employee shall have worked a given number of hours (optional with the municipality) during the first five days of the week. Employees working the full schedule therefore receive for a full week's services six times the daily wage.

In the event that the schedule calls for 48 hours' employment during the week, special daily schedules may be arranged to provide for a Saturday half-holiday without lessening the total number of hours of service required to be performed per week (see third extract quoted in the section just preceding). A schedule quite commonly adopted calls for $8\frac{1}{2}$ hours for each of the first five days of the week and $4\frac{1}{2}$ hours on Saturdays. The daily wage for each day worked is one-sixth of the weekly wage for 48 hours' employment. The rearrangement of the schedule of hours to provide for a Saturday half-holiday does not affect the daily wage payable unless the employee shall have worked insufficient hours to entitle him to a full week's pay. If he has worked only part time, he receives for each hour worked one-eighth of the established daily wage.

Those employed on a weekly basis receive a stipulated sum for a given number of hours of service per week. When less than a full week is worked, a proportionate part of the weekly wage is paid.

When overtime is necessary " . . . in cases of extraordinary emergency," employees are paid on a special basis under regulations adopted by the governing bodies of the municipalities or under rulings of the departmental heads. If overtime should be necessary on a continuing job, not classified as an emergency, the working time of those so engaged is arranged so that the maximum hours for a week's work may not be exceeded and the regular weekly earnings are not increased because of such work. In certain classes of service a limited number of persons are employed on Sunday, and are either paid on a special basis or else the schedule of hours is arranged so that not more than 48 hours are worked in any seven days.

In the case of holidays, special rulings are made by the municipalities. Permanent employees are usually granted holidays with pay. Those actually employed on such days are paid on a special basis or allowed time off in lieu of overtime pay.

C. PUBLIC UTILITIES

Introductory Note. The data set forth in connection with Public Utilities are presented in four sections. The information in Section I has reference to those occupations which are peculiar to the operation and maintenance of street railway lines; in Section II are presented data with reference to passenger bus lines, which are now an important factor in transportation; in Section III are given data with respect to gas and electric companies; and in Section IV, telephone service.

I.

STREET AND ELECTRIC RAILWAY SERVICE

The employees of street and electric railway companies are divided, broadly, into two classes — those in the passenger service, or “blue uniform” men, and those employed in what may properly be known as construction, maintenance, and repair service. Rates of wages, hours of labor, and other conditions of employment applicable to such men are, in most instances, the result of formal agreements between the street railway line and labor organizations.

The employment of uniformed men is governed by schedules drawn up by officials of the companies. These schedules provide that a certain number of runs or trips shall be made daily, over stated routes, taking into consideration the morning and evening rush hour “peak” loads. Seniority governs the selecting of runs and the employment of the men. The daily and weekly hours of labor of other than uniformed men vary with the nature of the work performed.

The information with reference to operators of passenger busses maintained by street and electric railway companies has been enlarged upon because of the growing importance of this means of transportation.

TELEPHONE SERVICE

The data presented in this section were furnished by the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company and were in effect as of August 30, 1936. The rates shown apply to switchboard operators and to clerks in the exchanges within the jurisdiction of the Boston headquarters. Care should be used in comparing these rates with rates in private employment because of the fact that much of the work is of a nature peculiar to telephone service.

¹ The rates appearing on the schedules become effective upon completion of the specified periods of actual length of service. This is in contrast to previous schedules, on which a moratorium of two years in the effective date of wage increases after the end of the first year was applied commencing January 24, 1932. While increases were resumed on January 24, 1934, this two year lag as applied to the schedules, was not discontinued until August 30, 1936, when the above schedules became effective. The hours of labor to which the weekly rates of wages apply range from 30 to 40 hours per week, varying according to the nature of the tour assigned.

In comparison with those on day assignments, operators, junior supervisors and supervisors assigned to forenoon-evening, afternoon-evening, evening, night first half, and all-night tricks receive a differential either in a reduced number of hours of work, or additional compensation, or both, depending upon the type of assignment.

² Paid at rate of $1.00 more per week than operators or senior operators of corresponding service.
